

SETAC, Nashville, TN, November 17-21, 2013

Oral presentation:

Kellie Fay

Using cryopreserved trout hepatocytes to obtain clearance rates for improving bioaccumulation predictions

An introduction and detailed description of how to use cryopreserved trout hepatocytes for improving bioaccumulation assessments is covered in this presentation along with recent results from an inter-laboratory validation of the method